Testimonial

Dream Venue!

I got married at the Bushnell Event Center and had the most memorable time. From first stepping foot in to take a tour to walking out after my wedding was easy, top notch service with amazing communication. Lisa was a gem to work with through the whole process and I used vendors from their preferred list and had no issues. My wedding went so smooth and ended up being the best day of my life.

Lisa was such a bright light in a stressful time. I would recommend anyone to have their wedding here. Well any event really. I'm now planning my baby shower at the Bushnell, Lisa has really become part of our family! - Rachel Garland

MELODY PARKS

WHERE COMMUNITY AND LIFESTYLE COME TOGETHER

Melody Parks is a dynamic, master-planned community unlike anything the greater Springfield area has seen in more than 50 years. Designed with intentional, community-centered planning, the development—led by Forty Partners and the Greater Springfield CIC—will offer diverse housing options surrounded by amenity-rich parks and neighborhood-focused businesses. Named in honor of the former Melody Cruise-In, Melody Parks celebrates Springfield's longstanding connection to film and entertainment. Forty Partners, a joint venture between Ohio-based Borror and Dillin Corp., brings together two premier, community-centric development companies to deliver this transformative project.

The Planned Urban Development will encompass the former Chakeres drive-in movie theater and adjacent CIC land, totaling approximately 400 acres. Conveniently located off Route 40 and less than two miles west of I-70 between Columbus and Dayton, the site will feature single-family homes on 50- to 80-foot lots, multi-family apartments, for-rent patio homes, and a variety of retail and commercial uses such as grocery, banking, and dining options. It will also include open green spaces connected by walking paths, creating a vibrant, well-integrated community environment.

FOUNTAIN VILLAGE DEVELOPMENT

BUILDING COMMUNITY AT THE HEART OF SPRINGFIELD

Fountain Village is set to become one of Springfield's premier new housing developments, ideally located in the heart of the city's North side and surrounded by the distinguished Ridgewood neighborhood. The community offers the charm of mature, tree-lined streets and walkable sidewalks while remaining close to highly desirable amenities, including retail, places of worship, schools, Springfield Country Club, Wittenberg University, and Mercy Health's regional campus. Homeowners will also benefit from a 15-year full real estate tax abatement on improvements, adding long-term value and making Fountain Village an attractive option for a wide range of buyers. Designed with comfort, convenience, and connection in mind, the development blends thoughtful planning with high-quality craftsmanship.

Crosstowne Properties, a local real estate development firm, has secured approximately 14 acres at North Fountain Boulevard and McCreight Avenue—the former Mercy Hospital site—to bring this vision to life in collaboration with Mercy Health. Plans include around 50 high-quality single-family homes built with masonry exteriors, low-maintenance materials, open floor plans, en-suite bedrooms, attached parking, and generous storage. Additional detached patio homes will complement the edges of the community. In a separate effort, Crosstowne is also purchasing about 3 acres from Wittenberg University at the northeast corner of the same intersection—formerly home to Jefferson School—with the goal of creating a mixed-use development featuring townhome-style residences and a small retail component.

Together, these developments will form a cohesive, walkable neighborhood that enhances the northern gateway to Wittenberg University and brings new energy to the North side of Springfield. With more than 150 new housing units planned across a variety of styles and price points—and an initial investment exceeding $40 million—Fountain Village is poised to restore vibrancy to this key corridor and support the continued growth and vitality of the Springfield community.

THE WREN PROJECT

REVIVING HISTORY, REIMAGINING DOWNTOWN

The redevelopment of the historic Wren Building at East High and Limestone Streets—paired with a new four-story structure on the adjacent lot—is bringing Springfield its first large-scale downtown apartment community. Together, the two buildings will offer more than 80 market-rate apartments featuring tall windows, high ceilings, and select units with exposed historic mushroom columns. More than 6,000 square feet of street-level retail space will be reactivated along High and Limestone Streets, restoring the storefront presence the area once enjoyed. On-site parking, including covered spaces accessible through the basements, will serve over half of the units. Residents will also enjoy a range of amenities such as a street-level lounge, a rooftop community room and deck, a fitness area, and an on-site pet center. Blending preservation with innovation, the $32 million project is the first in the nation to combine new modular construction with historic renovation.

Once nearly demolished, the Wren Building is now undergoing a transformational restoration expected to bring its first apartments online in early 2026, with additional renovated housing available later in the year and commercial space following. The five-story development will include apartments from 450 to more than 1,000 square feet, with anticipated rents ranging from $1,100 to $2,300. The modular units—constructed of rolled steel at the company's Columbus manufacturing facility—will be transported to Springfield for assembly, reducing exposure to the elements and shortening the construction timeline to roughly 14 months. The combined renovation and manufacturing work is expected to generate more than 200 jobs, utilizing Ohio-based subcontractors with extensive historic renovation experience. Supported by $4.5 million in state historic tax credits and funding from Ohio's Transformational Mixed-Use Development Program, the Wren Building redevelopment marks a major step forward in Springfield's ongoing downtown revitalization.

GREAT LIFE AT A GREAT PRICE

AFFORDABLE LIVING, CONNECTED COMMUNITY

Springfield, Ohio, and its surrounding villages offer an exceptional blend of small-town charm, affordability, and access to modern amenities, making it an ideal place for families, professionals, and retirees alike. Residents benefit from a high quality of life, with lower-than-average housing costs, well-regarded schools, and a variety of recreational, cultural, and community-focused opportunities. The region's vibrant neighborhoods, tree-lined streets, and welcoming communities foster a strong sense of connection and belonging, while nearby parks, bike trails, and green spaces encourage outdoor activity and healthy living.

Springfield's central location provides convenient access to Columbus, Dayton, and major highways, putting big-city entertainment, shopping, dining, and cultural attractions just a short drive away. A growing local economy, diverse housing options, and a variety of community events and programs make the area dynamic and appealing. With its combination of affordability, accessibility, and community spirit, Springfield and its surrounding villages offer an exceptional environment in which to live, work, play, and raise a family.

THE VILLAGES OF CLARK COUNTY

Nearly one-half of Clark County's population lives in our smaller cities and villages. If a small town or rural setting is what you are looking for, take a stroll down New Carlisle's main street or take in the acres of farmland that surround South Charleston and you'll see why so many of our residents call these areas home.

NEW CARLISLE

Clark County's second largest city, with 6,000 residents, New Carlisle enjoys a vibrant downtown and is just minutes away from the I-70 / I-75 intersection — the "crossroads of America."

ENON

Once a bedroom community for Dayton, Enon, with its 2,400 residents has grown in its own right as the headquarters of Speedway/7-Eleven LLC and the home of a $14.5 million, 11,000 square foot freestanding emergency department.

SOUTH CHARLESTON

Few communities embrace their history like the home of the regionally known South Charleston Opera House and the zip code for many of the area's farmers.

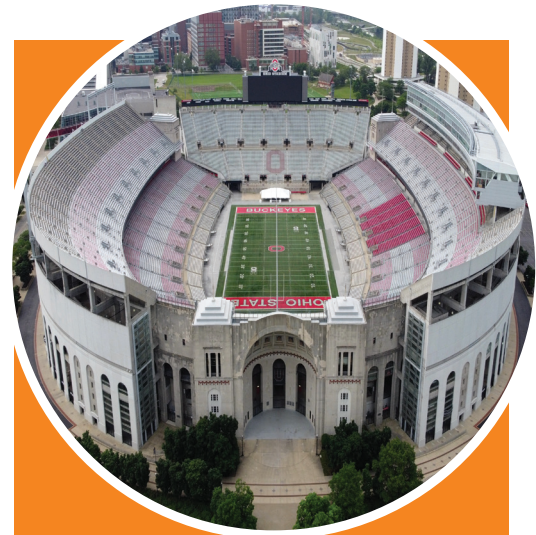

SOUTH VIENNA

Home of the national large-equipment auctioneers, Ritchie Brothers, and the South Vienna Corn Festival, the village of 400 residents embraces its agricultural roots.

411

Before the coming of Social Security programs, Springfield was the location of state children's homes for the Knights of Pythias, International Order of Odd Fellows and Ohio Masons and of the Oesterlen Lutheran Orphans Home. The Masonic Home's main building, for obvious reasons nicknamed "The Castle," still dominates the crest of a hill along Ohio 40 on the city's west side. These homes earned Springfield the nickname, "The Home City."

COLUMBUS, DAYTON, CINCINNATI

Springfield's prime location offers more than just local amenities—it provides convenient access to major attractions across the region. With Columbus to the east and Cincinnati to the south, residents are only an hour or two away from big-city entertainment, diverse dining, cultural experiences, and premier shopping. Major destinations like Nationwide Arena, Ohio Stadium, and Kings Island amusement park are within an hour's drive. Even closer, the University of Dayton and the Dayton Dragons minor league baseball team are just 30 minutes away. Within a couple of hours, you can reach Cincinnati's Great American Ballpark, Paycor Stadium, and the Newport Aquarium across the Ohio River. This central location lets Springfield residents enjoy small-city comfort with easy access to world-class attractions.

Arts & Culture are Center Stage!

The legacy of commitment to culture and the arts lives on in a city that boasts its own symphony orchestra, first-class history museum, Smithsonian-affiliate art museum and modern performing arts complex – amenities

SPRINGFIELD MUSEUM OF ART

OHIO'S ONLY SMITHSONIAN AFFILIATE ART MUSEUM

The Springfield Museum of Art, a Smithsonian Affiliate, boasts a permanent collection of American art spanning from the 1700s to the present. In addition to its rich collection, the museum offers a dynamic lineup of rotating exhibitions, showcasing a wide range of art forms, works by self-taught and contemporary artists, and annual juried member's shows.

The Museum has also recently launched the public phase of its Art Invites... capital campaign. This comprehensive initiative focuses on three main goals: preserving and maintaining the Museum's facility and collections, enhancing its financial stability, and creating inviting spaces for the community to gather and engage with the arts.

FRANK LLOYD WRIGHT'S WESTCOTT HOUSE

JUST WRIGHT AND MORE

Frank Lloyd Wright's Westcott House, beautifully restored in a $5.8 million renovation, stands as a standout feature of Springfield's cultural landscape. A tour of this 1908 Prairie-style home, with its bold horizontal lines and organic color palette, is a must-see. But the Westcott House, originally designed for Springfield automaker Burton Westcott, hasn't remained static. It has evolved into the Westcott Center for Architecture and Design, a dynamic hub for preservation, innovation, education, and inspiration.

HERITAGE CENTER

OUR STORY, OUR HISTORY

Beneath the clock tower of the grand old city building, time doesn't stand still — it comes alive. The Heritage Center tells the story of the area in two floors of exhibits plus an annex that houses old fire engines, a horse-drawn hearse and the accoutrements of undertaking past.

PENNSYLVANIA HOUSE – MADONNA OF THE TRAIL

ALONG THE HISTORIC NATIONAL ROAD

The Pennsylvania House, commonly known as “The Inn at the End of the Pike,” opened in 1839 to provide a welcome relief for pioneers heading west on the National Road. The beautifully restored 24-room house museum and its artifacts is maintained by the Daughters of the American Revolution.

Another tribute to the road and its travelers stands in the downtown park, National Road Commons. In 2011, the Daughters of the American Revolution gave their blessing to move the circa-1928 Madonna of the Trail statue to the new downtown park. One of 12 statues commissioned by the DAR in 1927, the Madonna honors the courage and sacrifice of the country's founding mothers.

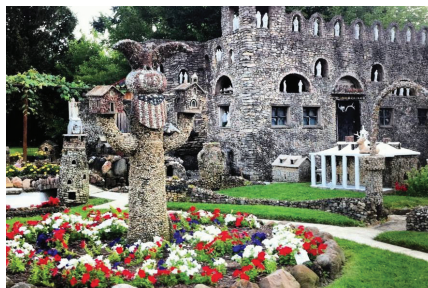

HARTMAN ROCK GARDEN

A FOLK ART TREASURE

During the Great Depression, self-taught artist Ben Hartman, with more time than money, created one of Ohio's most significant folk art contributions by building intricate scenes of religion, pop culture, and Americana in his yard at 1905 Russell Ave.

A recently awarded $75,000 grant from the Ruth Foundation for the Arts will support the Hartman Rock Garden in planning a new visitor center, enhancing conservation efforts for its stone figurines, and making other improvements.

The Hartman Rock Garden, a nationally recognized visionary art environment, was inspired by Ben's family, friends, and influences from magazines, books, radio, and film. This personal space was designed to express his values and ideals to the wider world. The new visitor center will enhance the experience for the 13,000 visitors who come each year.

SPRINGFIELD PUBLIC ART

In the past few years public art has become more of a staple of the atmosphere of Downtown and throughout the city as a whole, and it continues to be at the forefront of plans moving forward.

This is SPRINGFIELD

THIS IS SPRINGFIELD

Telling the Real Story

When Springfield, Ohio, became a political prop during the 2024 presidential campaign, community leaders recognized the need to reclaim their story. From a community meeting in early 2025, says Chris Schutte, came two parallel initiatives: the This is Springfield campaign and the Springfield 2051 community-building project, launched in August 2025. Schutte, vice president of destination marketing for the Greater Springfield Partnership, has been involved every step of the way.

“Both initiatives are rooted in the same desire to help our community thrive, to help us all connect to each other, and to remind ourselves why we choose to be part of this community,” says Marta Wojcik, executive director and curator at the Westcott House Foundation and an integral part of Springfield’s arts and culture community. “There is a great desire to communicate better, by getting together to figure out some important truths about ourselves, and by communicating these truths both internally and to the outside world.”

This is Springfield started with videos and social media posts that highlighted stories about the city’s diverse, innovative community. “Springfield is full of doers, makers, artists, workers and achievers,” Schutte says. “Springfield is — and always has been — about our people. Springfield’s place on the National Road in the early 1800s led to an influx of immigrants and entrepreneurs who in many ways shaped not just the future of Springfield, but the future of our country.”

“The heartbeat of Springfield is sustained by our community of activists,” Wojcik says. “From the Summer Arts Festival to the Second Harvest Food Bank to Haitian Coalition, you see familiar faces everywhere and you can’t help but be awestruck by their endless energy and compassion. No matter the cause, large or small, people find a way to form alliances to collectively make a difference.”

to update their community’s roadmap to the future. Supported by state and local government and Springfield’s philanthropic community, and spearheaded by a coalition of citizens and community organizations, the project is guided by an expert team at regional planning consultancy Future iQ, and rooted in the company’s people-focused, data-driven, future-oriented methodology.

Springfield 2051 and This is Springfield are all about telling the real stories of our community. The best way to get to know someone is to sit down and listen to their stories — a fact as true for a city as it is for a person.

The perception-building campaign was a success and grew into ThisIsSpringfield.com, a website that hosts information about the city and stories about the people, businesses and culture that make up the community. The site also serves as a portal to information about the Springfield 2051 project, a 15-month community building process for Springfield and Clark County that launched in August 2025.

SPRINGFIELD 2051

A Community-Driven Roadmap to the Future

Springfield 2051 sprang from further meetings with the group, and eventually with Governor Mike DeWine’s office, which led leaders to realize that it was time

Through the process, the group will engage community members to learn about important work happening across the region, identifying strengths and challenges. The group’s research will chart paths to align resources throughout the area and promote unity among stakeholders. The outcome will be a set of initiatives with specific goals, driven by the people who call Springfield and Clark County home.

“Our hope is to see our residents feel a true sense of pride in their community, to feel that they are heard as part of the process,” Schutte says. “To have a palpable sense that we are all working together to build a better future for everyone. Springfield 2051 is a critical piece of this process, which will be amplified by This is Springfield to a local, regional and national audience.”

“As we launch Springfield 2051, I think about the process ahead of us, and what a great opportunity it is to develop an authentic narrative about ourselves,” Wojcik says. “As it’s been wisely stated, ‘It’s hard to hate up close.’ Our differences may not dissipate completely, but perhaps subside a bit if we decide to get closer to each other.”

The market is a unique event that brings our community together while reaching thousands of visitors each summer, connecting local producers with customers far beyond our city and county. One of the highlights each year is seeing the diverse culture and values of Springfield reflected through the market.

Thanks to generous sponsorships, the market continues to grow in both reach and impact. These partnerships support valuable programs like the POP Kids' Club, WIC, the EBT Matching Program, Senior Bucks, and Produce Perks, all of which help ensure the market benefits everyone in our community.

NATIONAL ROAD COMMONS

DOWNTOWN SPRINGFIELD'S BEST-KEPT SECRET

With popular events like the IndieCraft Music Festival, Springfield Jazz & Blues Festival, and MustardFest held at National Road Commons, Springfield's vibrant downtown is gaining attention.

To enhance the area's gathering spaces and green spaces, the Community Improvement Corporation developed National Road Commons and relocated the historic Madonna of the Trail statue there. Just a block away, a streetscape project on Fountain Avenue has transformed the area, adding charm to small shops and paving the way for new retail and dining options.

A new 300-bay parking garage with street-level retail on Fountain Avenue has further solidified the corridor as the heart of Springfield's downtown.

PERFORMING ARTS CENTER

NATIONALLY KNOWN ACTS

Clark State College, whose Brinkman Education Center is located downtown, teamed with local leaders to build a handsome Performing Arts Center — beautiful Kuss Auditorium. Its stage hosts national acts and serves as a fitting home for Springfield's Symphony Orchestra. So Many Places to Play!

With so many parks and trails and places to enjoy water sports, cycling, ice skating, hiking and more... Greater Springfield, indeed, is a reservoir of recreation.

SPRINGFIELD'S PARKS

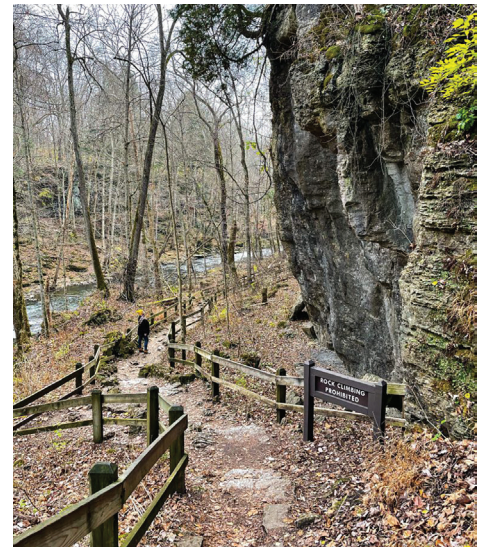

BUCK CREEK STATE PARK

Nestled in a region rich in agricultural history, this area was once home to both Native Americans and early pioneers. Buck Creek State Park boasts a 2,120-acre lake with a variety of water activities, including boating, water skiing, fishing, and swimming. An accessible pier provides fishing opportunities for anglers of all abilities. Hikers and horseback riders can explore miles of multi-use trails winding through meadows and wetlands. The park also offers family cabins and a modern campground for overnight stays.

HAPPY TRAILS

EXPLORE AND EXERCISE ON RECREATIONAL TRAILS

Greater Springfield boasts miles of paved, multi-use trails, including the Little Miami Scenic Trail, which stretches nearly 80 miles south to Milford. The Simon Kenton Trail extends the Little Miami corridor another 18 miles north from downtown Springfield to Urbana, starting in the heart of the city, with easy access to attractions like the arts district and the ECO Sports Corridor. From there, it winds into Ohio's scenic countryside. Additionally, the region offers numerous hiking trails, including those at Buck Creek State Park, Glen Helen, Clifton Gorge, and John Bryan State Park.

MAD RIVER GORGE

NATURAL CLIMBING CLIFFS

The recently opened Mad River Gorge & Nature Preserve offers some of the finest natural climbing cliffs in the Midwest ascending to nearly 50 feet! The Access Fund and Ohio Climbers Coalition partnered with the Clark County Park District to develop this exciting new natural area. The Gorge also offers scenic hiking trails and access to the Mad River.

GEORGE ROGERS CLARK PARK

PARK HOLDS LOCAL HISTORY

George Rogers Clark Park, home to the historic Hertzler House, is located across from a reconstructed 1800s barn and near a stockade with Native American and pioneer artifacts. Visit the Davidson Interpretive Center to explore the “Clash of Cultures” exhibit, explaining General George Rogers Clark’s 1780 march from Kentucky. The Fair at New Boston, held on Labor Day weekend, features a popular reenactment of a 19th-century trade fair. The Clark County Park District also manages the Estel Wenrick Wetlands, offering another great spot for outdoor activities.

MAD RIVER ADVENTURES

Enjoy a wonderful canoe experience through the unspoiled, cool and clear waters of the Mad River in Clark County when you book a trip with Mad River Adventures. The water is clear enough to see the river bottom in the more shallow areas, and has a light current to carry you along, but it’s not so strong that you can’t paddle against it. Two whitewater kayak features are centerpieces of Springfield’s developing Eco Sports Corridor. Those looking for more placid waters can rent canoes for a peaceful paddle on Mad River as it slices its way westward toward the Great Miami River. Many families and groups have found the Mad River to be a great way to discover the wonderful enjoyment of canoeing in Ohio!

FROZEN WATER FUN

THE CHILLER ICE ARENA

The latest addition to Springfield’s recreational reservoir is the NTPRD Chiller, owned by the National Trail Parks and Recreation District and operated by the Chiller Ice Rinks of the Columbus area. Now home to Wittenberg University’s hockey team, the Chiller offers skating and hockey lessons, open skating, parties and drop-in hockey as part of the regular schedule.

CHAMPION CITY HALFTRACKS

PROSPECT LEAGUE BASEBALL HITS HOME RUN

The Champion City Half Trax, formerly known as the Champion City Kings of the collegiate Prospect League, launched its inaugural season in 2014. The team’s 28-player roster features top collegiate talent competing in roughly 30 home games at Springfield’s Carlton Davidson Stadium from June through August. With its minor-league feel, the Half Trax offer affordable, family-friendly entertainment for fans of all ages. The team’s new name and logo pay tribute to Springfield’s World War II heritage, when International Harvester produced approximately 13,622 half-track vehicles in the city.

THE GRASS IS GREENER IN SPRINGFIELD

If golf is your game, we have some ideal spots. Greater Springfield boasts nine regulation golf courses, including the third-ranked private club in the region — the Springfield Country Club. The 110-year-old course was designed by legendary golfer and golf course architect Donald Ross, whose own golf legacy lives on at Pinehurst. One of our more interesting public courses is Windy Knoll, a links-inspired creation. The horse statues on the grounds are a tribute to the horse breeding farm and the horses that were there in an earlier generation.

COMMUNITY EVENTS

Festive Fun for Everyone!

Our longest-running festival – the Summer Arts Festival – is also our most recognized and loved. This free, month-long celebration of music and fun has been taking place between the scenic cliffs along Buck Creek for nearly 50 years and draws attendees from across the region and state.

SUMMER ARTS FESTIVAL | JUNE & JULY

CONCERTS UNDER THE STARS

In what might be likened to a modern observance of the summer solstice, rows of lawn chairs start appearing shortly after sunup between the limestone cliffs of Veterans Park from mid-June through mid-July. It's the time-honored method for reserving a prime spot for that evening's performance at the Springfield Summer Arts Festival.

The admission-free festival has something for everyone — from those whose tastes run from ribs to Rachmaninoff. Tribute bands annually attract the likes of Parrotheads and Deadheads. Home-grown talents John Legend and Griffin House might drop by. Staples include the Springfield Symphony Orchestra and musicals showcasing local and touring talent. All play out as the sun sets on the beautiful and well-appointed Veterans Park Amphitheater. Find out more at springfieldartscouncil.org.

THE 411 | There is a $0 admission fee to all events in the Springfield Summer Arts Festival.

FAIR AT NEW BOSTON | SEPTEMBER

A REVOLUTIONARY GATHERING

Step 200 years back in time at the Fair at New Boston! This quality event - from historical re-enactments to time period vendors and food - creates the illusion of time travel to 1790 - 1810. Each Labor Day, history lovers and re-enactors from across the country migrate to George Rogers Clark Park for the Fair at New Boston. Held near the grounds of the Battle of Peckuwe, the largest Revolutionary War battle fought west of the Allegheny Mountains, the event transports attendees to the 18th century, where tinsmiths, blacksmiths and tatters display their wares between taverns, and ruffians do their best to avoid detection by constables on patrol. The regular firing of the 6-pound cannon near the stockade helps moderns hear echoes of the Ohio past while General George Rogers Clark patrols the grounds.
